

Leave Me

Helene Fischer

I look in your eyes and I know what is wrong It's always the same again The moments we have are shared and gone I wish that it all would end The thought of you leaving is always there It's maybe, maybe not And for once I just can not go on

Leave me or come love me with all of your heart Only half is not enough to call it love , it's now or never Leave me or please promise me all that you've got If you give me all your time We'll let the world pass by

A day without you, a night with no love I'm longing for your embrace I give you my all but all that I get Is only second place And how can I carry on like this it's tearing me apart Will you stay ,will you go with your heart

Leave me or come love me with all of your heart Only half is not enough to call it love , it's now or never Leave me or please promise me all that you've got If you give me all your time We'll let the world pass by

Leave me or come love me with all of your heart Only half is not enough to call it love , it's now or never Leave me or please promise me all that you've got If you give me all your time We'll let the world pass by

If you give me all your time We'll let the world pass by
