Warlot

Born in fire and ice Pure of heart, mind and soul I crush the walls of ignorance Never to betray my heritage

You can kill my body But my ravishing moral I'll keep for myself

I seek none but my own bliss Grasped through the paragons I choose Self-righteousness one can say But in the end you have to choose your own way

None stand before me None can mock my ways I quench my thirst through my own artistry

Memories -Fields of gold Life -Shades of grey Walls-Built to punish Pride -Never imprisoned All is all -In the middle earth That is where -I've laid my peace
