

Dreams

Helker

You can't find the way
And see where you are
If you come or you go, you resist, you give up
You exist or you run

All you have to do is live
Running after the small signs
That will bring you freedom now
And will open all the gates

When your day finally comes, you'll understand

There's no way, that your dreams
And hopes might disappear
You will see, you can make them come true
You can believe
Even if the whole world brings you down
There's no way
That you can't think for yourself

You are, tired of this fight
Against the wall
And you feel so alone, and they push you
To live an unreal, way of life

You have things under control
You can see beyond their lies
I feel sorry for the one, who cannot feel alive

When your day finally comes, you'll understand

There's no way, that your dreams
And hopes might disappear
You will see, you can make them come true
You can believe
Even if the whole world brings you down
There's no way
That you can't think for yourself
