

Far From the Stars

Halloween

Every time I try to take control I'm getting mad
Things are always different than you want them all to be
I have learned a million times you can just make it bad
Ain't no way to change these things to what you wanna see

We take control of our whole wide universe
We are pretending we don't need no helping hand
We try to take control of all our whole wide world
But we will never understand

Far from the stars
There might be a higher being we may not yet see
Far from the stars
A better life could wait for me

Every time I lose control I learn a little more
We are not the ones to regulate or justify
Every time I see the world turns round I understand
We are not the ones to dominate or modify

We take control of our whole wide universe
We are pretending we don't need no helping hand
We try to take control of all our whole wide world
But we will never understand

Far from the stars
There might be a higher being we may not yet see
Far from the stars
A better life could wait for me

Nobody knows where it begins or where it ends
Time only shows we're holding nothing in our hands
Wasting our time trying to know the universe
The end of the line is that we can not live without a strong belief

Far from the stars
There might be a higher being we may not yet see
Far from the stars
A better life could wait for me
