We were feeling an endless eternity, you & I Saying goodbye is okay too, isn't it? Isn't it? We'll just shake it off The words "I love you" are left only in my memories The two of us who stopped the hands of the clock can never go back again

Lured by a hot breeze that stirs up my heart, the two of us had our own part y that day We talked until the sun rose, at the midsummer beach where our hearts danced

Why is it that even though our feelings are apart, it still bugs me a little We can't go back to that day; a different tomorrow will just come to each of us

We were feeling an endless eternity, you & I Saying goodbye is okay too, isn't it? Isn't it? We'll just shake it off The words "I love you" are left only in my memories The two of us who stopped time can never go back again

Your scent still lingers now, but every day when I look back, my hopes are l et down

You'll forget as time goes by, but does your heart still ache a little?

I thought I decided it was all in the past, but I can't erase the memory You were just acting tough; I'll take you with me and there's no way we'll e ver stop

We believed in a boundless eternity, you & I Goodbyes happen sometimes too, right? Right? So I turn my back The words "I love you" are left only in my memories The two of us who stopped the hands of the clock can never go back again

You still look beautiful in my dreams But I'm leaving now I won't reach out to an empty future

If we should meet by chance one day Under this vast sky, that's okay, isn't it? Isn't it? No need to hesitate Even if there's no love, there will be a smile And the hands of the clock will silently start to move again
