Rotten Souls

Scared of the pictures of the past Affected smiles Under suspicious eyes of scorn Strength is all that I have inborn

Tell me, what would you do if you got to know You would never fit this world Look at me and you'll find the answer Don't need words to lie Tell me, how could I cease the fire that burns inside?

I won't change direction now I won't follow their empty words No time to spend with losers The ones who'll never heal their rotten souls

Something to hold and fight for The best option After all we have only one life The single chance to show your strength

Don't have to be this way We cannot blame life, yeah The power to erase regrets Needs to come from the inside, yeah

There's only one path you can choose Once it's running in your veins You won't give up in vain Never close your eyes to the past The obscurity of your lies will not outlast

So when it starts the ride It's only one track Nobody knows when it ends So better think of the plans Don't turn back, don't pretend No second chance to clean up If you screw up, all you have in life will turn into big lies So when it starts don't hide
