A moth into a butterfly And a lie Into the sweetest truth I'm so afraid of life

I try
To call your name but I'm
Silenced by the fear of dying in your heart once again

I see the seasons changing
And in the heart of this autumn I fall
With the leaves from the trees

I play dead To hide my heart Until the world gone dark fades away

I cry
Like God cries the rain
And I'm just one step away from the end of today

I see the reasons changing And in the warmth of the past I crawl Scorched by the shame

I play dead To hide my heart Until the world gone dark fades away

I stay dead Until you veil my scars and say goodbye to fate Before it's too late