

Ruin Them

Himsa

tarnish the crowns, stone them judge and jury upon the swerves reclaimed in slaved simplistics refuse and render, defuse and repel refuse the rue and force a panic in the creed or devour the virus, suckle the seed, remain slayed attached to an evil that bares the name this is subversion - this is humanities coup this symptomatic, rushed to certain demise, for us all refuse the refuge, refuse reform provoking tyrants - send the indictment to the realm delivered chaos, catharsis but keen, deem defeatist they are an evil that bares the face institution of dealing demand, fundamentals for indoctrination, spineless force to lure the sect and induce elimination - let it loose, they'll tear from this ruin them - can't deny the scorned unveiled brutality - spine its axis shift to avow an infestation ground breaking appeasement - to the failed achievement corruption is protection - so collapse their excess
