Not Human

Hocico

So you feel now all the pain It's only impressions of decay

You go deep with the ghosts And they teach you how to breathe

You see now what you did You're not human after all

You saw your god and you smiled You saw him crying as a child As in your dream

Just go backwards, just don't try to feign

Pieces of what I was I start to drink the rain That runs from my face, I try to escape from my own bad dreams But a voice tells me, hey! You're not human Violaence is what you want so come and break my face As you always wished So come and break my face I will never laugh again, that's all

I'm not human