All Will Be Forgotten

Holly Brook

Sittin' here i'm dwellin' on the things that i keep Holding on to yesterday Ties are broken ties are made i try so hard to find my way Around this crazy place Nobody seems to understand me Till you came along and told me this

All will be forgotten Every tear you've cried As soon as you awaken To what's right in front of your eyes Standing by your side

Sittin' here i'm thinkin' bout the weather and The countryside around me Simple little things like these are good to keep My silly mind from wondering I feel the summer breeze wash over me Oh i know the laughter know the love and Maybe i've just got enough to give

All will be forgotten Every tear you've cried As soon as you awaken To what's right in front of your eyes Standing by your side

The road is long before me now The memories beg me to stay But lonely is born from pride i've found So i'll reach out