Hello again
Your words they make me smile
As I drift away
In my little room upstairs
Oh I spend my nights
Imagining your face your touch
Then I realize

How I don't even know your name

If we could share our time
Would I disappoint your fantasies
I believe that you could be the one I'm needing 'cause I'm only lonely on the inside didn't mean to take away your dreams only lonely on the inside when you close your eyes to your deepest thoughts

I could start to give apologies

For all the stupid things That I will say and I will do

If we should ever cross the same place at the same time

Would your world skip a beat 'cause it was me

If we could share our life
Would I disappoint your memories
I believe that I could be the one your needing
And I'm

only lonely on the inside didn't mean to take away your dreams only lonely on the inside when you close your eyes to your deepest thoughts

If I could give back your hopes your joys your treasures Don't you think that I would change my world But there's so many things trying to pull us together Even though we're far apart I can still watch you walk away

Only lonely on the inside Didn't mean to take away your dreams Only lonely on the inside When you close your eyes do you see me

(in your deepest thoughts do you see me)
(when you close your eyes, in your deepest thoughts do you see me)