

You Hurt Me

Hooverphonic

You hurt me (when I've got so much more to give)

I must have been blind adoring the blues in everything lies a small kind of truth but than again, just when I thought you were staying for good you left for no reason is that all you could you're still a man

It's not what I want
it's not what I need nothing but lies and way too much heat just when I thought you were telling the truth
I caught you with here oh you fool

You hurt me when I've got so much more to give

We live in denial adoring what's new in everything lies a small kind of blues
but than again,
just when I thought you were leaving for good you stayed for no reason although we were through you're still a man

It's not what I want
it's not what I need
nothing but lies and way too much heat
just when I thought you were telling the truth
I caught you with here oh you fool

You hurt me when I've got so much more to give