

You came to me like a dream, the kind that always leaves. Just when the best part starts, it ends so abruptly. To leave you stunned and naked in the bedroom all alone. It's kinda funny how something so soothing gets interrupted by the ring of a telephone. And you broke me like a cigarette that I busted on the day I quit. Now that I've been drinking, I'm outta smokes and I wish that I had it. Woke up to my daily headache and the realization that you were gone. Oh my sweet darling happiness you've been away from me all along. It's one thing I never said, "I'm truly happy in my heart and in my head." A lonely liver suspended in liquid. You came to me like a dream, the kind that always leaves. Just when the best part starts, it ends so abruptly. To leave you stunned and naked in the bedroom all alone. It's kinda funny how something so soothing gets interrupted by the ring of a telephone. It's one thing I never said, "I'm truly happy in my heart and in my head." A lonely liver suspended in liquid. It's one thing I never did was smile. Missing a case, lacking a lid. My heart bleeds for what you never did until now. Verdict? Oh, did I just fuck up by talking right then? Alright.