

Didn't She Know

Hot Water Music

If she only knew, how much I cared
And was aware, of all the changes
She was going through.
They could've been tended to,
If only she'd given us half a chance.

She's got eyes upon her everywhere she goes.
She like to show her skin beneath her clothes.
But one day tides and tables will have turned.
Before she even sees it she'll get burned.

Didn't she know that I was Always on her side?
When times were trying, I was willing
To abide our strained relation.
How many moons went by,
Without me even knowing why?
I hung around to take the pain,
And fight the aggravation.

Now it's high time I got back to business.
Forget about what could have been, dismiss it.
But there are days when all those clouds
Come back to my head.
And I have to deal with all those thoughts that I dread.
