

If you hear this I hope it eases some troubles you left with I'm not sure what to say but I think I would've known that last day you said you had the goals to come out on top to set you up to live untouched by all the things that kept you from keeping up then we heard and we hurt and we scorned we burned for last words now lost the silence we sat through the breakdown the laughter the shelter and the future you planned on-I'll miss them I hope you're in a better place with soul set free I hope you're still singing loud with soul set free too bad you're not around for us to see but I still feel you around like you never left us
