

Someday When

House of Lords

Do you ever, oh
Do you ever wonder why
We mean the things we mean

Do you ever question, oh
If we're really guilty of all our crimes
After all it's just between you and me

For at the end of the night
All that we have is our heart

Someday when the battles are done
And great expectations are gone
And maybe someday when anguish is gone
We can finally find our way home

Have you ever listened, oh
Ever really listened to what we say
Do we really say what we mean

All the suppositions, oh
And the blind ambitions left me the pain
And the world between you and me, oh yeah

And every promise is made
The promises don't mean a thing

Someday when the battles are done
And great expectations are gone
And maybe someday when anguish is gone
We can finally find our way home
Find our way home

For at the end of the night
All that we have is our heart

Someday when the battles are done
And great expectations are gone
And maybe someday when anguish is gone
We can finally find our way home

Maybe someday when the battles
The battles are done, yeah
Someday we can finally find our way home
And maybe someday when the battles
The battles are done, yeah
Someday we can finally find our way home
