Show Me

Howard Jones

We got the same beat runnin' round through this crazy town
Oh I'm sick and I can't hear it anymore
And when we touched as the blood and the rain
We'd be shakin' the ground
She's sick and there's a way to bring her 'round

Show me what you're waitin' for This moment may not rise again And your heart will never know Show me what you're waitin' for The voices may not rise again And the world will never know

The party drags us over the edge to a poison shore I can't carry this desire anymore Across the blue sky callin' me with the sweetest demand She talks to me of mercy make me understand

Show me what you're waitin' for This moment may not rise again And your heart will never know Show me what you're waitin' for The voices may not rise again And the world will never know

And through these years
As the tears chase the rain
The picture has cleared
Can we face the change

Show me what you're waitin' for The voices may not rise again And the world will never know Show me what you're waitin' for This moment may not rise again And your heart will never know
