Sound the Alarm

Well I don't know if I can last When I come and rescue you And I don't know if my past Is enough, for me anymore

So I can take it as a test I will see when night gets old And I'd change it, if I could But something's wrong It's understood

And sometimes I miss you I know that you'll make it All too real now I wish it was fake

Sound the alarm I know we'll make it right, alright I Know this night Is your night That's right

Well I don't know if I could turn Every bridge that I have burned To overcome the sense of loss You gained so much, at such a cost

And sometimes I miss you I know that you'll make it All too real now I wish it was fake

Sound the alarm I know we'll make it right, alright I know this night Is all right That's right

And sometimes I miss you I know that you'll make it All too real now I wish it was fake

Sound the alarm I know we'll make it right, alright And I know tonight Is all right Right, all right We'll be all right Gonna be all right All right Tonight
