

Night Before The Morning After

Hudson Taylor

When I'm broke into your heart
Ooh I'll throw away the key
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief

Another night of destruction
What have a done to hurt you?
My body is not function in the way it's meant to Turn the light on, tell the truth
Be a man before it gets too late

Another morning, another day
Last night fade away
When she staring at me my heart forgets to keep the beat
The night before the morning after

When I'm broke into your heart
Ooh I'll throw away the key
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief

Another sight of disillusion
What did you see that hurt you?
Turn the tale now, turn the page,
Be a man before it gets too late
Another morning, what can I say?
Last night fade away

The night before the morning after
When I'm broke into your heart
Ooh I'll throw any key
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief

And when I think about now,
Ooh I really let you down
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief

Ooh you can read it in tomorrow's paper
But it's read in here all over my face
It hasn't happened yet
There's a feeling I regret
I'm guilty of the robbery about today

When I'm broke into your heart
Ooh I'll throw away the key
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief

And when I think about now,
Ooh I really let you down
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief
So tell me what you see, ooh a lover of a thief