

A Lifetime

Hush.

Every single morning before I wake up lonely I feel you here beside me but I know it's only a fading shadow, an illusion every little thing reminds me of you every shining colour has a shade of you in it I was blind but now I see it

If I could only have a day in the shelter of your arms or just an hour, I would pay any price to be where you are and if it got down to a minute that'd be precious time 'cause a second's all I need to tell you losing you is gonna take a life time for me

Every other night I still dream about you every song I hear has a sound of you in it and I can't believe that it's over there were many things that I should have told you and there were many times when I could have done so but I know baby that it's too late

Chorus...

If I could only rearrange the hands of time I'd make it up to you, I'd make you change your mind

Chorus...