

All Turns Black

Hypocrisy

[Verse 1]

I've been searching for the peace in my mind
It's nowhere to be found.
Your soul with me
Resting under my skin.

I see no point of living the life I lead
It hurts me too much.
Can you feel what I feel?

It must go deep.
My own soul is my enemy.

[Chorus]

It seems like everything I do just crashes down
It leaves an open scar that I know will never heal.
Broken promises now run through my head
I can't see the future and it all turns black.

[Verse 2]

What's the point of being here
When this whole life is dragging me down?
Is this how we'll be?
I don't want to be part of it.

It must go deep.
My own soul is my enemy.

[Chorus]

It seems like everything I do just crashes down
It leaves an open scar that I know will never heal.
Broken promises now run through my head
I can't see the future. It all turns black.

[Verse 3]

If there's another way
You can live another day
Then you'll know just when pressure's getting stronger.
I can hear voices calling my name
I guess they are over my head.

[Chorus x2]

It seems like everything I do just crashes down
It leaves an open scar that I know will never heal.
Broken promises now run through my head
