

Twelve Credits Short

I Call Fives

The scratchy static that ring out in your car
Can only mean the transmissions too far
You catch your daydream
Your on the edge of your seat
Watching and waiting for your life to change

Take on everything to give in to change
Misery loves company, a fact we all know
Don't look to devotion, when life brings commotion
Just lend an emotion and watch it all go

I know its hard to believe, but take it from me
There's times when we all want to let go
There's no point hiding your face
Cause it wont go away,
Even though it seems best to let go
Sing it if your with me

Take on everything to give in to change
Misery loves company, a fact we all know
Don't look to devotion, when life brings commotion
Just lend an emotion and watch it all go

Let it all go, just let it all go

Take on everything to give in to change
Misery loves company, a fact we all know
Don't look to devotion, when life brings commotion
Just lend an emotion and watch it all go
