

Sugar coated white lies
Can only get you so far before you get
Caught up in the middle and
I'm a human too
My life has value.
And everybody will think the same.

Good morning, time to wake up.
Sugar coated white lies, in the middle
If this is a lie then what am I?
Now I'm standing on my rooftop I
Sure could use someone to talk to Someone to make it alright
'Cause I'm done pretending.

Sugar coated white lies
Can only get you so far before you get
Caught up in the middle and
I'm a human too
My life has value.
And everybody will think the same.

I never thought that I would live to see
Everyone and me struggling to breathe
If this is a lie then what am I?

When the power of love
Exceeds the love for power
The world will finally, finally know peace.

They'll fight for the center of the universe with the sun
You're trapped in your tube, and blind from the truth
This is the future that's in store for you.

Sugar coated white lies
Can only get you so far before you get
Caught up in the middle and
I'm a human too
My life has value.
And everybody will think the same.

And sugar coated white lies
Can only get you so far before you get
Caught up in the middle and
I'm a human too
My life has value.
And everybody will think the same.

This is the portrait the man behind the curtain
Has painted for you
As long as you choose to be separate
You leave yourselves completely enslaved
