

You infiltrate like growing roots
The seed you planted with just a look Into my veins and my body shook
You read my heart like an open book
And the more I hide, the more you seek
With a siren's song so tongue in cheek
The haunting beauty covers me
I'm paralyzed in melody

But we both know that this won't last forever
So you better prepare yourself for the day I finally break the spell and you'll see
When it all begins to fall heavy on your heart
You've got no way, there's no way

A simple taste is not enough, a slow drip put straight into my blood
Cupid would shudder at the thought Forced fed a lie to fake a love

But we both know that every tolerance will grow
You better prepare yourself for the day I finally break the spell and you'll see
When it all begins to fall heavy on your heart
You've got no way, there's no way
When it all begins to fall heavy on your heart
You've got no way, there's no way out of this

But you can't resist,
Let it go, you cannot fake a true love
No drug is ever good enough!
And you know you can't replace what you lost, you lost!

I love the feeling so damn much it makes me sick
To feel your vines around my chest loosen grip
I feel the blood rush to my limbs and I feel numb It's like the IV's cut, It's like I'm finally waking up!

When it all begins to fall heavy on your heart
You've got no way, there's no way
When it all begins to fall heavy on your heart
You've got no way, there's no way

I thought that you were a rose and let you lay in my bed
But you made a home beneath my skin
I'm the flood to uproot you
I'm the storm overhead and you'll never feel the sun again