

Idle Talk

iamamiwhoami

Where are you, my long lost love?
It feels like yesterday has parted
I held you closest to my thrusting heart
Now the withdrawal seems to be starting

You're not like anyone I've known
With you, I flourish into greatness
Extend my arms into immense delight
Making my future passing weightless

Quite an undertaking of fair promises
I stopped hearing you crow
Quite an understatement when harm surfaces
That is hidden in snow

I should have kept you safe
Shielded from a Trojan war

Where are you, my parted sun?
The last I saw of you was sinking
Into a giant hole of nothingness
As my desire started shrinking

Or if I choose to take you back
If I stand up for my believing (if you can steal while I laugh)
Can we make up for all the joy we lack? (it was the motion you were breaking)
Can we start giving and receiving? (what is the purpose of me g iving?)

Quite an undertaking of fair promises
I stopped hearing you crow
Quite an understatement when home surfaces
That is hidden in snow

Where are you, my long lost love?
It feels like yesterday has parted