As human beings, we're a complex thing Sometimes so beautiful, other times so vain We've built an empire, the blood is on our hands Genocide and the chains that bind The consequence ahead

Oh, you ought to know Oh, you ought to know

Wrote about in history as if it's all O.K.

A race of people murdered another one enslaved

Now our world crumbles, it's happening within

Open your eyes and realize

The world we're living in

Oh, you ought to know Oh, you ought to know

If we could focus on important things
Live and let live true freedom, not everyone's the same
No more war for your god, no more war for your race
It's our world, it's what we make it
Make it a better place

Oh, you ought to know Oh, you ought to know

We can change the world that we're living in Live and let live true freedom Let the reign begin
