Idlewild

You look worn out, more and more each day With every step, and every page
You look worn out, more and more each day With every step, and every page

Your croft, dated back to the beginning of the century
It's the beginning of the century
Inside your croft, dated back to the beginning of the century
It's the beginning of the century

What are you looking for? You'll never get close You definitely don't know, you're not original What are you looking for? You'll never get close, You definitely don't know, you definitely don't know What you're about

You look worn out, more and more each day With every step and every page And you're still worn out, more and more each day There's every way to.....

Your croft, dated back to the beginning of the century It's the beginning of the century Inside your croft, dated back to the beginning of the century It's the beginning of the century

What are you looking for? You'll never get close You definitely don't know, you're not original What are you looking for? You'll never get close You definitely don't know, you definitely don't know What you're about

What are you looking for? You'll never get close You definitely don't know, you're not original What are you looking for? You'll never get close You definitely don't know, you definitely don't know What you're about
