Life Equals Zero (A Love Song)

Illdisposed

Together now we celebrate The nights when we're alone We pray for the world to go away That world which was grown into tormention and hate Life equals power in shaking old hands Patting their baby, the atomic power plant As we stand by and watch this cretinism I reach for my gun and scream at the system "Come on, I can take you all tonight!" And growl like an ancient hero "Life equals zero!"

Their lies, the future, it's all an occasion to die But when you look into my pale blue eyes I'm looking at paradise

All my thoughts Breath in me Control my life And set me free