

Broken Girl

Ilse DeLange

Rewrote the story, that I have told
Can tell what's rubble and what is gold
You put a softness back on my hands
Repaired with mystery my confidence
Before I knew it, you understood
You're on my skin now, run through my blood
It's really gonna make you wonder

'Cause I no longer hide
I have grown, no longer invincible
Cried rivers full
In your waters I am calm
Rain wash me clean
All your strenght reflects in me
I'm never gonna let you go
This broken girl is whole

I feel uncertain, I felt unworthy
Smallest attention, not meant for me
My shoulders carried, you took that load
You took the weight off, from off my soul
It's really gonna make you wonder

'Cause I no longer hide
I have grown, no longer invincible
Cried rivers full
In your waters I am calm
Rain wash me clean
All your strenght reflects in me
I'm never gonna let you go
This broken girl is whole

'Cause every little whisper, now gets told
And all the little secrets that I've known are now yours
You've stopped the bleeding, you made me whole

'Cause I no longer hide
I have grown, no longer invincible
Cried rivers full
In your waters I am calm
Rain wash me clean
All your strenght reflects in me
Rain, rain wash me clean
Wash me clean
Hide, hide
I have grown, no longer invincible
Cried rivers full
In your waters I am calm
Rain wash me clean
All your strength reflects in me
I'm never gonna let you go
This broken girl is whole