

The Rising Tide

Imany

How do you fight the rising tide?
How do you flee the dark in skies from here?
After the Earth has been so kind
Then welcome greed with open arms
How do you said, just we're perceived?
There's no time to grieve

No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
This world of us collapse
We live in denial

How do you trust the human kind?
How do you mend the broken line from here?
How do you greet the year at night
When tears of trees are streaming down?
How do you said, just we're perceived
'Cause there's no time, no to grieve

No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
This world of us collapse

Think about it once, think about it twice
Money won't replace what matters
I'm saying
Think about it once and think about it twice
Money won't replace what matters
No matter how much you lie to yourself

No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
No, no, no, no
There won't be no man around
No more seasons, no more reasons
This world of us collapse
We live in denial

How do you fight the rising tide?
How do you mend the broken line?
And sleep