

How Bad Can a Good Girl Be

Imelda May

Tried to resist you but I couldn't
Tried not to kiss you, knew I shouldn't
But I was weak for you
You got to me

Thought I was strong, oh how I was wrong
How bad can a good girl be?

Your breath on my neck as you thrilled me
A leg to caress nearly killed me
I was in need of you
You felt my need

Thought I was strong, oh how I was wrong
How bad can a good girl be?

An ancient voice escaped my mouth
And it screamed out a primal pleasure
My spirit soul my animal
Came together in every measure
Of life, of love
Of flesh, of blood
Of you

May God forgive my indiscretion
But I gotta admit, hear my confession
I wanna peak with you, feel you in me

Thought I was strong, oh how I was wrong
How bad can a good girl be?

Thought I was strong, oh how I was wrong
How bad can a good girl be?
