

When the World Explodes

In Flames

I'm right here,
When the world explodes,
Try to remember these words,
When the world explodes!

In the darkest of nights,
You are my endless fire inside,
Across the waters and back to shore,
There's space in time, you guide me.

Afraid there's not much time,
Life's a matter of moments,
Face the truth,
That I cannot run,
I always known.

So if I never get to say this to you,
You should still know, dry your eyes,
Find a stream that leads toward the water of the divine,
Come lay with me.

Face the truth, that I cannot run,
I always known (I always known)

So if I never get to say this to you,
You should still know, dry your eyes,
Find a stream that leads toward the water of the divine,
Come lay with me (lay with me)

So if I never get to say this to you,
You should still know,
Dry your eyes... dry your eyes.
Find a stream that leads toward the water of the divine
Come lay with me.
