

On Burning Paths

In Solitude

A broken chalice calls with a voice that seeks the heart

Like the poison of the snake rising in the dark

Say the words!

I choose to live

I choose to die

On burning paths to the end of the world

To never return!

A truth that outgrows and sets the path alight

Shadow sail for the land of Nod and the hungry night

Say the words!

I choose to live

I choose to die

On burning paths to the end of the world

On burning path

Unravelling it all!

In the bowels of a broken star and in the deep graves

That echoes with the beating heart of my yearning

To the gods that ignite the path

And the temple within us

To ever wander – forever burning

Against all other – unveil it all

The lips are seeking the sacrifice

Between two worlds I hold the child

A steaming skull entwined with horns

Left hand blessing to the lips of night

My father stares through smokeless flames

Eyes that mirror all eternity

To all beginning

To all end

To death!

Ever faithful in blood!

The devil's eye in me drew blood to make me see

That these fragments are the keys, I kneel to kiss the beast

Say the words!

I choose to live

I choose to die

On burning paths to the end of the world

To never return!