

A Dying Star

In This Moment

I was never good enough
I listened to their lies
I crucified myself
I always, but now I realize
That I'm the only one who can mend my wings

How did I come so far
My everlasting flame
My dying star

I was my own worst enemy
I was blinded by my shame
A hopeless masquerade
Never ending the guilt deep down inside
Was a blessing in disguise

I'll mend my wings
How did I come so far
My everlasting flame
My dying star
I can mend my wings

Now I fly
Hangin' on the wind
Following the light
I ride
Leave gravity behind
Following the light
Finally I can breathe

I, I bury all my doubt
I've learned to live without
The fear. I bear these scars.

In the star I can mend my ways
How did I come so far
My everlasting flame
My dying star
I can mend my wings

How did I come so far
My everlasting flame
My dying star

My dying star
