

Cataclysmic Shock

In Virtue

It begins
Flowing forth from its resting place
Lava creeps across the planet's face
Behold the final event
A world's untimely descent
A downward spiral to a cataclysmic shock

Embrace the horror
I think it's time for a new world order
Devastation

Born from chaos, now we must return

So be it
Quiet rumblings at the planet's core
Slowly build into a deafening roar
The force will soon overload
A world that's fit to explode
The curtain falling with a cataclysmic shock

Hallelujah, it's a firestorm
From the earth to the sky
See the shattered pieces fly
There's nothing like the smell of sulfur
In the atmosphere
'Cause I've been waiting my whole life
To see this planet disappear
And so we sing

Seismic symptoms of a future splintered
We're about to witness something massive
Molten judgment from erupting fissures
You've built a life and now you'll watch it melt away

Hallelujah, it's a firestorm
From the earth to the sky
See the shattered pieces fly
There's nothing like the smell of sulfur
In the atmosphere
'Cause I've been waiting my whole life
To see this planet disappear
And so we sing
Hallelujah, it's a firestorm
Apocalypse divine
We are thine
Finally it's time
Apocalypse divine
So bright
Splits the sky

Hallelujah, it's a firestorm
From the earth to the sky
See the shattered pieces fly
There's nothing like the smell of sulfur
In the atmosphere
'Cause I've been waiting my whole life
To see this planet disappear

And so we sing
Hallelujah, it's a firestorm
From the earth to the sky
See the shattered pieces fly
I wanna see the fractured fault lines
Spitting brimstone high
And when I see that molten tide
The shining moment of my life
You'll hear me sing
Hallelujah it's a firestorm

Pieces fly off from the shattered sphere
No evidence that there was once a planet here
Disaster waiting to strike
Dutch fingers pulled from the dike
A flood of fire to a cataclysmic shock

Embrace the horror
I think it's time for a new world order
Devastation

Hallelujah it's a firestorm
