

Believe

Indecision

I BELIEVE...

In eternal life, in myself, live forever, in immortality

I believe in a world free of excessive desire

A world filled with compassion and sensitivity

Not senseless murder, hate and material obsession

One life that condescends upon the importance of possession

I believe in myself, I believe we are more than just simply bodies

I believe in a million tomorrows and a life after death

I've never asked for anything from life

I'd rather give than take from it

I've never turned my back, I never will

This life is what we make of it

I believe that dreams destroy - that we are more than just bodies

In myself - in a million tomorrows - in human nature - in equality

I believe
