

Reconsider

Indecision

Believed to be a revolution
But to most just a style
Superiority at others exclusion
Disdain for those defiled
Just another form of segregation, emboldened
Enforcing your ideals
Step back, reconsider your position
Step back and try to deal in something real
I'm not turning back to the vow I made to my soul
Do it for yourself
Not to assume some role
To shut out and segregate was not the original intent
It seems we've lost sight of what it once meant
What it once meant
Its not a question of worth but its worth questioning