I made my move you got left behind
I'm sorry life for you didn't turn out how you expected
I made my move you got left behind
I'm sorry life for you didn't turn out how you expected

You gave up everything for one person that goes behind your back every night
You cut yourself out of this picture and went hiding for years
So I had to take your place in this portrait and piece it back together
Don't blame me for your failure
Honestly you were my brother but now it's time for me to step away
So you can grow
So you can grow
The light has burned out for you

I was there when you were weak
You were down you could hardly speak
And the water filled your eyes
When she left you wanted to run back to the poison of your soul
I was your conscience on this spiral down

How can you see since the only thing you see is yourself
The foolish ones always lose so go ahead and waste what you got

The bitterness between us back and forth has left a filthy taste in my mouth
The ground swept from under your feet has put me on the road to see the light
Keeping me in shadows for so long
Taking my work placing in the public eye

How does it feel to be on the lowest of levels
How does it feel to be on the lowest of levels
Can you hear me I've been dying I've been trying to reach you
But the oceans current of selfishness has split us apart
I'm on dry land while you're still sinking
While you're still sinking

I was there when you were weak
You were down you could hardly speak
And the water filled your eyes
When she left you wanted to run back to the poison of your soul
I was your conscience on this spiral down

I picked up the pieces that you threw on the ground
I'll build your dream as high as a tower
I'll be more than you ever will
You'll never be more than a man

You'll never be more than a man
