

I will wait for you
She is downing every bottle that's in her way
It doesn't matter where she lays
Waking to only find herself with another man
She thinks her lies are kept safe
But you can't put out a flame that's already been ignited
You've been creeping
But your secrets will never be saved
The phone rings
To only hear the voice of the man she's been loving
He knows by now he already knows
Of all the places that you have been
Where do we stop?
Where do we begin?
Because everything feels like the end
I can taste him on your breath
I swear that heart doesn't beat in your chest
You're a devil with the darkest of tricks
You're a serpent with a venomous kiss
You're a devil
Where do we go?
Where do we go from here?
You have all of them catching a fever making them believers
You're nothing but trouble whispers and all
Making men fall
She is downing every bottle that's in her way
By the end of the night it doesn't matter where she lays
Waking to only to find her self all alone
There is only one person here for you
Get off your knees or it's someone you will lose
Where do we stop?
Where do we begin?
Because everything feels like the end
I can taste him on your breath
I swear that heart doesn't beat in your chest
You're a devil with the darkest of tricks
You're a serpent with a venomous kiss
You're a devil
Where do we go?
Where do we go from here?
Everything with you feels like the end
