Never Be The Same

Ingram Hill

She takes another morning drive She wonders if she's right this time She dreams about a life in other scenes She says it when I'm not around She drinks herself all over town And finds a way to live in misery

And it's all I need To save myself And leave

Tell her I'm ok And she knows everything, everything I'll say Tell her it's a shame 'Cause I believe, my Love, you'll never be the same

She lays awake, alone at night She can't forget with all her might She left a love that only you could see Now she's sorry, desperate, feeling blue She dreams about a life with you The other side ain't always what it seems
