sunken in intoxicating slumber malevolent anticipating of non-existence pale-blue smoke of flames extiguishing insidiously it steals in night silence we open our mouths in dumb when dreamy life retrospections goes on starring in gloomy comedy blinded with dark implosion of light penetrating through a hole in membrane of the universe dreams torn asunder... this process you can't stop dreams torn asunder... morning sun will enlight our cold face dreams torn asunder... mouths stiffened in breathless outcry dreams torn asunder... buried in sweet non-existence starring in guileful tragedy puppets on capricious cords of fate we sleep in our endless dream sunken in intoxicating oblivion held in beauty of non-existence life is only strange intermezzo all earthly, human and unimportant here fades out silently we float through darkened emptiness and try to unite again ...our dreams!