

Caving In

Inspection 12

And so it's on forever. He's all alone and facing all his doubts.

Discouragement is the price he pays for feeling lame.

Goodbye sweet child-

Your life was easy but now you bear the scars of man.

Endless, it seems, are the thoughts you tame and messes made.

How long can I go on like this? I'm growing tired.

What pains come over me?

I feel so sad with loss of will I think I'm caving in.

I'd do anything just to make you say

"I won't cave in this time I swear."

I won't believe it though, not with all the time

I had to make you think you cared..you're scared.
