Sunderance

Intronaut

The voice has always been here, But is never heard Loud cries drowned by the rain Overcome by the wind

A shared breath, a world apart The missing pieces are all that's left

Slipping away

Time is too fast to catch, And too slow to forget