

Thinking About You

Irma Thomas

Yesterday I saw the sun shining
And the leaves were falling down softly
My cold hands needed a warm, warm touch
And I was thinking about you

But here I am looking for signs to lead me
You hold my hand but do you really need me
I guess it's time for me to let you go
But I'll be thinking about you, I'll be thinking 'bout you

When you sail across the ocean waters
And you reach the other side safely
Could you smile a little smile for me?
'Cause I'll be thinking about you, I'll be thinking 'bout you
'Cause I'll be thinking about you, I'll be thinking, thinking
Thinking about you
