

Something More

It Prevails

Looking in your eyes I knew
You were the one who would hold me close,
The one that wouldn't let go.
I have an open heart to change,
The ones I love but some chose to save face.
And turned and walked away from me.

And that's okay because the hardest part of being human
Is learning to let go and pick your battles well.

If patience is a virtue, we are waiting patiently.
Time will show us who we are whether or not we'd like to see.
This idea that we call life is to become the best that you can be,
I'm trying harder everyday to find the man that I plan to be,

I found him, I crossed the lines.
To be him, there's no more wondering why. I am him. I'm done wa sting time.
I crossed the line,
I'm done wasting time, wasting time.

It was always something more to me.
It was everything, it was everything to me,
But you turned and walked away,
Although alone at times, I'll see this through