Time Repairs

Jack Bruce

If you can take a part of time and bend it back again Maybe change all the tears all the fallen years Will you be there in the night? When the shadows of our fantasies stand around with keys Unreal suns might dance across the floor Unsung songs sing themselves once more If two can sail in a ship On the sea 'Til we cross the line never giving in Walking in weather where lies won't shine Will you be there in the morning? Still organising that four or five sizes can be worn In the storm

(I knew all along I knew we could drive these blue
