

If Not For You

Jack Greene

If anything I am or hope to be
If any compliments are paid to me
If any praises I receive for anything that I achieve
I know they rightfully belong to you

For when I wandered, you convince me that I could
Knowing you depended on me, proved I should
And in your mind you never doubted that I would
But what would I do if not for you

I see admiration in your eyes
And I believe you think I'll hung the moon
And if I feel like other men I'll find the will and try again
But anything I am begins with you

For when I wandered, you convince me that I could
Knowing you depended on me, proved I should
And in your mind you never doubted that I would
But what would I do if not for you
What would I do if not for you
