

You Are My Treasure

Jack Greene

You are my treasure and my darling, I possess
The world's greatest treasure, the treasure of happiness
Your smiles are my pearls and your ruby lips are beyond compare
Your eyes are my diamonds and my gold, is the gold in your hair

Earth has it's treasures, of fabulous wealth untold
And who can measure the treasure the oceans hold?
But whether it be, underneath the sea or the sky above
There is no treasure, like the treasure of your love

You are my treasure
There was a time when I thought I could find happiness in silver and gold
The world's greatest treasure
And I longed for fame and worldly acclaim

And I've hungered for these things, filled my very soul
But then you came along and now I know I was wrong
For in your eyes I can see the greatest treasure in all the world
The treasure of your sweet love, just for me

Earth has it's treasures, of fabulous wealth untold
And who can measure the treasure the oceans hold?
But whether it be, underneath the sea or the sky above
There is no treasure, like the treasure of your love