

Rainy Day

Jacob Banks

Somewhere, there's a mother trying
Trying to fix a broken heart
She knows there's no use in crying
So she prays for a brand new start
Somewhere, there's children crying
Cause the road to the river is way too far
They think there's no use in fighting
Cause their hopes and dreams have been torn apart

So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day

Somewhere, there's a father living on his knees
Waiting on his little boy to come back
He's traveled far, far and wide across the sea
Fighting a hopeless war on his own
Somewhere, the dreamers run wide and free
Chasing a rainbow, only they can see
It's a lonely road but it's the only way to go
Will they make it there? We will never know

So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day

It's a cold world outside
Such a shame
It's a cold world outside
So much pain

So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day

So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
So I pray, oh lord, I pray for a rainy day
