

Louder Than A Loaded Gun

James Durbin

You left that key
You left that key on the table
You left my heart
You left my heart on the floor
I battle on
With my battle scars still open
What is it good for?
Tell me, what is it good for?

If an apology's all that you needed
It was right on the tip of my tongue
And I'm finding it hard to believe that
It was easier to run
Was it easier to run?

So say, say, say
Just can say what you want to
But hey hey hey
Just don't give me up
I can scream scream scream
As loud as I want to
But silence has become
Louder than a loaded gun

Would you walk with me
Walk with me to the ocean
Just to write goodbye
To write goodbye in the sand
Well there's nothing here
And nothing left to be broken
Maybe that's part of the plan
To shatter everything I am

If an apology's all that you needed
It was right on the tip of my tongue
And I'm finding it hard to believe that
It was easier to run
Was it easier to run?

So say, say, say
Just say what you want to
But hey hey hey
Just don't give me up
I can scream scream scream
As loud as I want to
But silence has become

Pick up the pieces
That fell in between us
Take it or leave it

You can say, say, say
I don't give a damn

Just as loud as I want to
Your silence has become

Say, say, say
As loud as I want to
But silence has become

Say, say, say
But silence has become
